MEDICINAL.

There is a widespread and false impression that a remedy for a cold or cough is a good physician, must be more or less heartless. People mistake heartlessness for nerve. The two terms are far from synonymous. A man may have a nerve of steel and a heart as tender as a mother's.

Of all the specialists in the world, there probably are not two that have as wide an experience in the treatment of women's ailments as Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consultant of the "Invalids' Hotel" and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y. With the assistance of his staff of able physicians, he has prescribed, in the past thirty years, for many thousands of women. Dr. Pierce is pre-eminently a sympathetic physician. Perhaps more than any other man in the profession he realizes the hardships of woman's work, and the disadvantages of the weak, delicate and susceptible structure of the feminine organism. His immense practice in diseases peculiar to women forced upon his recognition the fact that women would never take the proper care of their health, so long as that care required the payment of "examinations" and "local treatments" insisted upon by nearly all physicians. After years of study he invented a remedy now known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription that is an absolute and unfailing cure for the most complicated and obstinate cases of diseases peculiar to women. This wonderful medicine cures the nervous debility of the home, and does away with the necessity for obnoxious "local treatment." It imparts health, strength, vigor and elasticity to the organs distinctly feminine and fits for wifehood and motherhood.

In paper covers, 21-cent stamps; cloth binding, 50 cents extra. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

DINNER AT THE WHITE HOUSE.

President and Mrs. McKinley entertained the peace commissioners at dinner last night in recognition of the success with which they adjudicated the treaty between the United and Spain. Never has the Executive Mansion responded more artistically to the inspiration of the artist, who must have exhausted both his ingenuity and the White House conservators in his determination to insure a success never achieved before.

The ceiling of the East Room was starred with electric lights under opalescent bulbs, and festooned with smilax that swung in airy graceful loops from the prisms of the crystal chandeliers. The mantels were banked with white roses, white hyacinths and pink carnations, with an outer edge of poinsettia blossoms as vivid as flame, and a contrasting hedge of snowy azaleas. Immense plaques of pink and white carnations were suspended before the smilax-veiled mirrors, and the life-sized portraits of Lincoln, Johnson and General and Mrs. Washington, that hang on the east walls were draped with vines and the space between banked to the ceiling with palms.

As carriage after carriage whirled up to the portico and the magnificently gowned women and distinguished men moved across the carpeted plaza to the door, the commissioners and their wives were directed to cloak rooms to the right of the main vestibule, while the guests invited to meet them were ushered to the left. They assembled later in the East Room, where they were joined by the President and Mrs. McKinley, whose approach was heralded by the trumpets of the Marine Band. The President's hospitality last night was of so generous a character as to overflow the boundary lines of the state dining room, and the table was placed in the main corridor to meet the requirements of the company which, with Mr. and Mrs. McKinley, numbered seventy-two. The way to the little banquet hall was enlivened by the band, which was stationed in the conservatory, their scarlet uniforms making a splendid mass of color against the background of tropical green. President McKinley escorted Mrs. Hobart to dinner and Mrs. McKinley was attended by the Vice President. Mrs. Day's partner was Secretary Hay and Mrs. Hay went in with Judge Day.

From one end of the vast table to the other were grouped massive gold candelabra, the clustered candles burning under shades of daintiest pink. Midway of the board, and forming a floral barrier between the President and his vis-a-vis, Secretary Hay, rose a mass of green orchids from a base of maiden hair fern. Long-stemmed Golden Catepaws bloomed at intervals in tall crystal vases set between plaques of tropical fruits.

The toilets of the ladies were in superb keeping with the floral beauty of the scene. Mrs. McKinley wore with a pale pearl brocade, that flashed blue in its high lights, a quantity of rich lace and ornaments of diamonds.

The state dining room was transformed into a smoking room for the gentlemen. Its crimson walls and furnishings were contrasted with palms and white hyacinths, and the blue parlor was idealized into a fairy bower with delicate fern foliage and azaleas of every dainty hue.

KAISER LIKES PRETTY WOMEN.

A dispatch from Berlin says: The Kaiser admires a beautiful woman. Five years ago the Countess of Berlin was discussing his flirtation with his morganatic cousin, the Countess Fritz Hoheborn. She was a superb horsewoman and was one of the first women in Berlin to show herself on horseback astride of her steed. She was a toast of the officers and was implicated in "anonym" us letters regarding herself and the Kaiser. For this her husband practically exiled her to near Dresden.

Then came the Italian Countess Anina Morosini, who has a form like a Venus. The Kaiser met her at a ball at the Quirinal and was so smitten, it is said, that he was a caller at her palace in Venice.

Duchess d'Aosta was the next. She is the sister of Prince Victor and Prince Louis Bonaparte and resembles her grandaunt, Princess Pauline, who posed to Canova for his statue of Venus, and who, when asked whether she had not felt uncomfortable, responded: "Oh, dear, no; there was a big fire in the room." She is a widow and King Humbert of Italy twice divorced her of the use of the royal livery, once because she rode a bicycle in tight-fitting breeches and again because of a certain midnight supper at Turin.

The Kaiser is now admiring Countess Goertz, who is a singularly beautiful woman, and makes her home on her husband's estate at Schiltz, not far from Darmstadt, where the Emperor is a frequent visitor.

Food does more harm than good when not digested. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat. It prevents wasting diseases and cures stomach troubles. It cures indigestion, sour stomach and belching, and allows a workout stomach rest. It acts instantly. Edgar Warfield, Jr., corner King and Pitt streets.

IN ALL STAGES of Nasal Catarrh there should be cleanliness. As experience proves Ely's Cream Balm is a cleanser, soothe and healer of the diseased membrane. It is not drying nor irritating, and does not produce sneezing. To test it a trial size is mailed for 10 cents or the large for 50 cents by Ely Brothers, 56 Warren Street, New York. Druggists keep it. Upon being placed into the nostrils it spreads over the membrane and relief is immediate. It is an agreeable cure.

A Thousand Tongues

Could not express the rapture of Annie E. Springer, of 1125 Howard St., Philadelphia, Pa., when she found that Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption had completely cured her of a hacking cough that for many years had made life a burden. All other remedies and doctors could give her no help, but she says of this Royal Cure—"It soon removed the pain in my chest and I can now sleep soundly, something I can scarcely remember doing before. I feel like sounding its praises throughout the Universe." So will every one who tries Dr. King's New Discovery for any trouble of the Throat, Chest or Lungs. Price 50c. and $1. Trial bottles free at E. L. Allen's and E. S. Leadbeater & Son's Drug Stores; every bottle guaranteed.

La Grippe Successfully Treated.

"I have just recovered from the second attack of la grippe this year," says Mr. J. A. Jones, publisher of the Leader, Mexico, Texas. "In the latter case I used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and I think with considerable success, only being in bed a little over two days against ten days for the former attack. The second attack I am satisfied would have been equally as bad as the first but for the use of this remedy as I had to go to bed in about six hours after being 'struck' with it, while in the first case I was able to attend to business about two days before getting 'down.'" For sale by J. H. Janney, Druggist, 701 King Street.

Mr. S. A. Fackler, Editor of the Mercury, (Fla.) Huestler, with his Grippe, One Minute Cough Cure was the only remedy that helped him. It acted quickly. Thousands of others used this remedy as a special for La Grippe, and its exhausting after effects. Never fails. Edgar Warfield, Jr., corner King and Pitt streets.

It Hangs On

If it was only health, we might let it cling. But it is a cough. One cold no sooner passes off before another comes. But it's the same old cough all the time. And it's the same old story, too. There is first the cold, then the cough, then pneumonia or consumption with the long sickness, and life trembling in the balance.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

loosens the grasp of your cough. The congestion of the throat and lungs is removed; all inflammation is subdued; the parts are put perfectly at rest and the cough drops away. It has no diseased tissues on which to hang.
